

Institut für Flugsysteme

Inquisitive,

- at the forefront of Human-Machine Interaction (HMI)?
- to conduct experiments in Flight Simulators and with real airplanes?
- to develop the next generation of Unmanned Aerial Vehicles (UAV)?

The Institute of Flight Systems (LRT13) is looking for student and scientific assistants, bachelor/study and master workers, as well as doctoral students in the fields of natural sciences, engineering and human sciences with an interest in topics such as aviation and Human-Machine Interaction.

Further information and job advertisements under www.unibw.de/fmff
 Applications please to Univ.-Prof. Dr.-Ing. Axel Schulte: axel.schulte@unibw.de

The offered positions are civilian positions at the Bundeswehr University Munich.

der Bundeswehr
Universität München

